

HPV and Cervical Cancer

SATELLITE CONFERENCE AND LIVE WEBCAST

Wednesday, January 20, 2010 2:00-3:00 p.m. (Central Time)
3:00-4:00 p.m. (Eastern) • 1:00-2:00 p.m. (Mountain) • 12:00-1:00 p.m. (Pacific)

Our series on health disparities in minorities in Alabama continues with a focus on the human papillomavirus (HPV) and cervical cancer. There are more than 100 types of HPV, and about a third can lead to cervical cancer. While cervical cancer incidence and mortality rates are decreasing among women in some racial and ethnic populations, trends show numbers continue to be high with African-American and Hispanic women. Learn more about the diseases and what can be done to reverse the trends.

The content of this program is based on the policies and procedures of the Alabama Department of Public Health, Alabama and federal statutes, rules, regulations, and guidelines.
