

Better Together: Partnering to Address the Social Determinants of Health

Satellite Conference and Live Webcast

Tuesday, April 24, 2018, 10:00-11:00 a.m. (Central Time)

11:00 a.m.-12:00 p.m. (Eastern) ■ 9:00-10:00 a.m. (Mountain) ■ 8:00-9:00 a.m. (Pacific)

According to Healthy People 2020, "Health starts in our homes, schools, workplaces, neighborhoods, and communities." Where and how we live can have a great impact on our health. We know that people are generally healthier when they eat healthier and exercise, but there are a lot of other factors that can impact our health, including access to healthcare services, clean water, and social and economic opportunities. The environments in which we are born, live, learn, work, play, worship and age are known as the social determinants of health, and they affect our health, quality-of-life, etc. The Secretary's Advisory Committee on National Health Promotion and Disease Prevention Objectives for 2020 Report indicates that in order to achieve health, we must focus on assuring the conditions necessary for health, rather than just controlling disease.

Program Objectives:

1. Define and discuss the social determinants of health.
2. Describe the challenges in addressing the social determinants of health.
3. Provide information for healthcare providers on how to utilize existing resources to address the social determinants of health to improve health outcomes and achieve health equity.
