Recent studies show that rape is still all too prevalent. Somewhere in America, a woman is raped every two minutes. By the age of 18, one in four girls and one in six boys will be victimized. In fact, you are most likely to be raped by someone you know: a friend, an acquaintance, a relative or even the neighbor next door. This program will provide information on medical issues related to sexual assault. Program faculty will cover important information to help support caregivers in providing better service and care to sexual assault victims, including a discussion of the sexual assault forensic examination process and the role of the Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner.
