As communities across Alabama are still experiencing the pain and suffering of unprecedented loss from the devastation of the tornados this past April, special attention needs to be paid to one of the highest risk groups—children. Whether a child has personally experienced trauma, has merely seen the event on television, or has heard it discussed by adults, it is important that health care professionals be informed and ready to help if reactions to stress begin to occur.

Join us for an hour presentation and a 30 minute discussion of your questions and comments.