

Immunizations 60 Sec PSA

Influenza and pneumonia season is here, and now more than ever, it's important to get your flu and pneumonia vaccines. In this time of social distancing, many are concerned with leaving their homes. But getting the flu and pneumonia vaccines is more important than ever to prevent infection.

Protect yourself and others from preventable, contagious viruses like flu and pneumonia – which can cause illness, hospitalization, and even death. The flu and pneumonia vaccines reduce illnesses, doctor visits, hospitalizations, missed work, and missed school. Flu and pneumonia season can sometimes peak as late as February or March. Making sure your children are vaccinated on time is an important step toward ensuring their long-term health.

Everyone can help fight the flu and pneumonia by getting vaccinated today. Let's take action to fight the flu and pneumonia and stop the spread of vaccine-preventable diseases!
