

National Black HIV/AIDS Awareness Day 30 Sec PSA

African Americans account for 13 percent of the U.S. population; however, we also make up 43 percent of newly diagnosed HIV cases. February 7th is National Black HIV/AIDS Awareness Day – a day to highlight social support to end stigma and increase prevention and testing efforts for HIV in our communities. It’s also a day to encourage friends and loved ones to stay healthy and seek treatment if they have HIV. Educate yourself. End HIV.

For more information, Download ADPH’s Know. Manage. Live. app from the Apple and Google Play Store.

For more information, contact: Brandon Vaughn brandon.vaughn@adph.state.al.us / 334-206-2080