

Safe and Healthy Holiday Gathering 30 Sec PSA

This holiday season will look like none we've ever experienced, but there are still ways you can gather with friends and loved ones safely without compromising your health.

Remember that virtual, drive-in, or drive-by gatherings and celebrations can be just as enjoyable as traditional ones. If you must gather in person, consider how many people plan to attend, and if you're hosting, consider an outdoor venue or an indoor space with good ventilation and plenty of space for social distancing. Last, make sure that all guests are properly wearing masks and washing or sanitizing their hands regularly to reduce the spread of germs.

Finding unique, safer ways to celebrate this holiday season might be a bit challenging but doing so will also ensure a safer and healthier season for all of us.
